

Biography – Rosalie Ault

Executive Director

Animal Protective Foundation

Rosalie Ault is the Executive Director of the Animal Protective Foundation (APF) in Scotia, NY. The APF, founded in 1931, is a full-service humane society and is a leader in the animal welfare community, particularly with regard to spay/neuter.

Prior to her appointment as executive director in 2007, she served in the capacity of Director of Administrative Services for the organization where she was responsible for budget and finance, human resources and systems administration. Rosalie will celebrate 15 years with the Animal Protective Foundation in October 2009.

In her free time, Rosalie is a tutor for Literacy Volunteers and enjoys reading, cooking and spending time with Tom, her husband of 28 years and Maggie, their lab/beagle mix who they adopted from the APF.
