

Biography – Jeff Lauridsen

Assistant Director of Community Vocational Services
The Center for Disability Services

Jeff Lauridsen received a M.Ed. from Springfield College, Springfield, Massachusetts in 1983. He has worked in the disability and education field for the past twenty five years. Jeff is currently Assistant Director of Community Vocational Services at The Center for Disability Services where he has been employed for the past nineteen years. His primary responsibilities are to place adult disabled consumers in community based employment and assisting individuals to transition from the world of school to work. Jeff was also on the Board of Directors of the Troy Resource Center for Independent Living, the NYS TBI Professional Steering Committee, and a part-time faculty member at Maria College. He is currently Assistant Director of the Board of Directors of Capital District Keys for Kids, which provides free music lessons for inner city children. Jeff is a lifelong resident of Troy, N.Y. and a avid sports and music fan.