Jen Sunderlin is an Associate Attorney with Tully Rinckey PLLC, primarily practicing in family & matrimonial law, criminal defense, and special education law.

Outside of work, Jen currently serves on the Board of Directors for the Girl Scouts of Northeastern New York, where she furthers the mission of instilling leadership skills and values in girls throughout the capital region. She also volunteers at pro bono legal clinics through The Legal Project, and holds membership in the Schenectady County Bar Association, and the Albany-Colonie Chamber of Commerce GenNEXT Council. In her spare time, Jennifer also enjoys the Adirondacks, and supporting Albany Knicks rugby games.

Jen received her Bachelor of Arts from Hamilton College in Clinton, New York with concentrations in American Government and Theater. Jennifer also studied public policy and foreign affairs at Stockholm University in Stockholm, Sweden.

Jen first came to the capital region to attend Albany Law School. While at Albany Law, she served as Executive Editor for Business of the Albany Law Review. She was also a member of the ABA National Negotiation Competition team and participated in the Senior Prize Trials. Jen is an active member of the Albany Law School Alumni Association.

Prior to joining Tully Rinckey, Jen worked for the Civil Rights & Disabilities Law Project at the Albany Law Clinic & Justice Center, where she represented special needs clients in education matters. She also interned with the Honorable David N. Hurd at the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of New York.
